

Have
You Heard?

by Dorothy McCain Eلسenius

Did anyone happen to see that cute little blonde running down the pedestrian walk on the Buchanan overpass recently, pursued by two gentlemen? Guess no one did, because the police weren't called.

It was all in the line of business, however—as it was just photographer Fern Luoma, Chamber of Commerce Manager Hal Denham, and Chamber President Dick Miles hurrying to take a picture of Albany's famed flag pole for publication in an eastern trade publication.

Hal's club members asked him a pertinent question at a meeting that evening, however. "Just what did you plan on doing to that blonde if you caught her?"

Berkeley message studios aren't discriminating. Women as well as men who park in Spenger's parking lot are ticketed with studio ads offering private rooms with telephones, the Wall Street Journal and music—with all major credit cards honored. How about that!

So you think your mail service is slow? A Southern California newspaper recently received a letter from the U.S. Army, reporting that Pvt. Alvin Finkowitz, 18, had completed his basic anti-aircraft artillery training.

The only trouble is: Finkowitz is now Fink. His address isn't L.A., it's Los Alamitos. He isn't single—he's married with two daughters and two grandchildren. He isn't an anti-aircraft gunner—he's vice-president of a big firm, and he isn't 18, he's 44.

The postmark on the release reads August 13, 1946, but the newspaper received it earlier this month. The mail must go through—and it did—FINALLY!

Anyone who likes to do their Christmas shopping early will welcome knowing that Sam's Pharmacy is now conducting their annual 1/4 price sale on Christmas cards. Buy now, address and mail early and make it a Merry Christmas for the postal employees.

Adjourned Hearing For Proposed Albany Hill Apartment Development

By Dorothy McCain Eلسenius

Following a sometimes spirited three and a half hour public hearing, during which everyone in the audience desiring to speak either for or against the proposed Interstate General Albany Hill apartment complex was given the opportunity, the City Council adjourned the hearing until September 11. At this time the hearing will be continued, and a great many questions concerning the project asked at this first hearing will be answered.

Those submitting letters in favor of the project, or appearing in person at Monday night's meeting to voice their approval, included several local Realtors; Hal Denham, representing members of the Albany Chamber of Commerce; Bob Nehls, a member of the Albany Board of Education; Chief of Police Ralph Jensen; John Duncan, a member of the Albany Traffic and Safety Commission; the administrators of Golden Gate Fields, and many home-owning residents.

Mel Strauss, Albany businessman, noted that he had been opposed to the project until he had seen the presentation by the developer's representatives. "Albany Hill is no Tilden Park—this land would have to be greatly improved before it could be a park. "The prime concern of many Albany residents on fixed incomes is not a park—but how to keep paying their taxes so they can continue to live in Albany. If something isn't done to give them relief, many of them will be forced to move out of the city, as I myself may also."

The pro side of the audience indicated their feelings that the Hill project would mean new wealth and new people for the city, to improve the tax base and boost the city's dwindling population. "The City now depends on the Golden Gate Fields race track for a high percentage of its tax returns," said Jerome Blank, Albany homeowner and Realtor. "If the track closed down for even one season—Albany would be on the ropes."

Blank also indicated that it was getting harder to convince businesses to establish in Albany because of its population figure.

Hal Denham, Chamber of Commerce manager, indicated this organization, without exception, was highly in favor of the proposed project. He indicated that the Chamber felt the project would not contribute to overcrowding Albany schools, since over 100 students from outside areas are already attending there to help fill classrooms. He also noted that the project would not be in need of many city services, since it would be self-contained and provide its own security and fire protection, as well as recreational facilities and a child-care center.

Appearing in opposition of the project were members of the Friends of Albany Hill, headed by Catherine Webb; several elementary, high school and college students; a number of Hill residents, both homeowners and renters, as well as residents from other Albany areas. Correspondence was also read from a number of people from outside Albany—including the San Francisco Bay Chapter of the Sierra Club, the Board of Directors of Berkeley's Urban Care, Point Richmond resident Lucretia Edwards, and several El Cerrito citizens.

Opponents voiced concern over the impact the project would have both on Albany Schools and the traffic in the Pierce Street-Free-way area. Their main cry was

"Keep Albany Hill as it is," and try to seek methods to purchase it.

Catherine Webb read from a lengthy report on the lead content in automobile fumes, and indicated that in her opinion these fumes could prove harmful to the projects residents. She did not, however, explain how children playing in the park area, as proposed by her Friends group, would escape this danger.

Mrs. Webb also questioned why the developer was planning a project for high-income people, and not for those in a lower or middle income bracket.

Robert Twiss, a Pierce Street resident, accused the developers representatives who attend the hearing, of presenting a "hard sell pitch" which was totally biased in favor of the project. He indicated that Albany's growth should be spread throughout the City, and not be left to one developer in one area.

Council questions to be answered at the September 11 hearing will include those concerning the specific areas to be dedicated to the City of Albany for park use and the improvements to be constructed by Interstate General on such lands; the proposed commercial/residential ratio; off-street visitor parking, and street and other possible improvements to be required of the development. The answers to these and other questions will aid the Council in preparing conditions to be attached to any use permit granted for the development.

What and Who is IGC?

In answer to questions posed at Monday night's meeting, concerning the who and what is Interstate General Corporation, the following information is being offered:

Interstate General Corporation (IGC) is an integrated real estate development corporation active in: land development, heavy construction, home building, property management, manufacturing.

Established in Puerto Rico in 1957 by James J. Wilson, IGC is the organizational product of the New Era in building and project development, where specialists can no longer function in isolation if projects are to survive, profitably, in the swift changes brought on by population growth; shifting patterns of public taste and need; commercial center relocation and expansion; new engineering and building product innovation. IGC is the coordinating base for a group of specialized operating divisions. It acts to organize the total spectrum of services involved in the development of its own projects; in joint ventures; and for independent developers.

The Corporation currently has total assets in excess of $50 million.

Its major project in the continental United States is St. Charles, an 8,000 acre HUD-approved new community located 20 miles from the Nation's Capitol in Southern Maryland.

During the period it was active in Puerto Rico, IGC built more than one million square feet of commercial space, more than a thousand apartment units, and more than one hundred million dollars of general contracting work. Among IGC's major projects are: Banco de Ponce, a 10-story steel office structure in the heart of the Santurce business district; San Patricio Plaza, the island's second largest shopping center; El Senorial, a complete community with two churches, two shopping centers, three schools, a golf course, 700 single family dwellings, and 700 apartments; the new 16-story Pan Am building, one of Puerto Rico's largest; a major canal; and several super highways. IGC was a major factor in the planning and building of San Juan's new financial district.

The officers and directors of IGC are: James J. Wilson, president and director; Charles E. Stuart, vice-president, U.S. Operations; Donald G. Blakeman, vice-president, administration and finance, secretary and director; Robert T. Wilson, vice-president and assistant treasurer; Eugene B. Hill, vice-president, California operations;

Sergio J. Veliz, treasurer; Joel H. Cowan, director (president, Phipps Land Company, Inc., a subsidiary of Bessemer Securities Corporation); Webster E. Pullen, director (chairman of executive committee, Swanson Enterprises, Inc.); R. Daniel Saxe, Jr., director (secretary and corporate counsel, Bessemer Securities Corp.).

Shutterbugs Visit Olsons

Forty-two members of the Albany Camera Club were entertained by Harold and May Ellis Olson at their home in Camp Meeker last Sunday.

The members arrived for brunch and later broke up into small groups, some to visit Armstrong Grove in Guerneville; others took the Coleman Valley Road out of Occidental, a picturesque drive to the Pacific Ocean, then to Bodega Bay, past old historical buildings dating back to the 1800's, snapping pictures along the way.

The group returned to Camp Meeker for cocktails. Later, they all met at the Union Hotel in Occidental for dinner, as the Olsons' guests. During dinner, the engagement of Wayne Brennan, president of the club, and Edele Peterson was announced. The wedding will be in February.

Honor For Sue Perry

Sue Perry, a 1969 graduate of Albany High School, was recently selected Residence Hall Woman of the Year of California State University, Humboldt.

Each year one woman and one man receive this honor for being the most active in promoting activities and fellowship within the entire residence hall system as well as among their own living groups.

Sue is majoring in Accounting and Data Processing and maintaining a B average. She has also been active in student body government, being the secretary of the College Union Board.

Operation ID Stops Theft

Have you had a TV or other valuable property stolen recently, with no hope of return?

The Albany-El Cerrito Exchange Club's Operation ID will not only prevent thefts, but also aid in getting your item returned.

The process is very simple: engrave your driver's license number or an identification number on your valuable property. The pens are available at four locations for a $5.00 refundable deposit for 48 hour use. If assistance is needed, the Exchange Club will arrange it for you.

Less than two percent of the billions of dollars worth of property stolen is returned each year, because police have no way of identifying an article as that of a particular owner.

Now this system allows the police to return stolen property to you, and identifies stolen property as such when discovered in the possession of the thief.

Along with the pen, special decals for door or window display to inform potential burglars that your household items are marked. Of some 5,000 participating homeowners in one city, only 20 have been burglarized while the 6,000 non-participating homeowners experienced over 2,000 burglaries during the same nine year period.

If you do not have a driver's license, ID numbers can be received from the Department of Motor Vehicles.

For information contact the Albany or El Cerrito Police Departments. Or get in touch with one of these outlets handling the engraving pens. Lin's TV, 235-9200; Payless Plumbing, 525-1276; American Savings, 524-9114; or State Farm Insurance, 525-0928.

Council For Bond Issue

The Albany City Council voted 4-1, Monday night, in favor of the up-coming Albany School Bond Issue.

The lone "no" vote, came from Councilman Hubert Call who noted that he definitely was for better schools in Albany, but not at the expense of the city's homeowners.

He said that although the support of local schools by homeowners property taxes had been declared unconstitutional, the school districts continue to collect.

"I would most certainly change my mind, when a way is found to relieve the already overburdened homeowner," the Councilman said.

Duty Calls

Environmental self-protection is the duty of every person to himself, his family and his community, stated Harold Van Coops, deputy health officer of the City of Albany.

In his rounds as a sanitarian, Mr. Van Coops makes periodic visits to places which prepare or dispense food, provide health care, offer their sanitary facilities or otherwise affect the health and safety of persons.

Assistance in the form of reporting any serious irregularities observed to the health department weekdays between 8:30 and 5 p.m. would be appreciated, since routine visits must necessarily be infrequent due to the small staff. The number is 526-6116.

AIP Candidate Visits Albany

Congressman John Schmitz, American Independent Party presidential candidate, will visit Cortese for Congress Headquarters, 1057 Solano Ave., Albany, tomorrow (Thursday) from 3 to 3:30 p.m.

The candidate will meet with local people and explain his platform of "less government and more individual responsibility—with God's help."

Congressman Schmitz, who believes that the U.S. should never go to war unless it intends to win, says "Those who work should live better than those who won't."

Local Boys Making Good

At the suggestion of Mayor Joe Carlevaro, the City Council instructed the City Attorney to prepare a resolution commending the members of the Louis Hagen Post 340, American Legion Baseball team from El Cerrito, on winning the state championship, and wishing them well in the regional competition.

Albany ballplayers Dave Jaramillo, David Diaz, Len Patterson and Tony Van Coops are members of the team, and left with their teammates yesterday for regional championship playoffs in Ontario, Calif.

Having won the state championship undefeated, in Yountville last week, the team, coached by Larry Quirico and Warren Grant, will play in John Garvin Park. Their first game will be against the host team, Ontario, whom they have already defeated; plus teams from Nevada, Arizona, Hawaii, New Mexico, Utah and Colorado.

They are expected to return home on August 28. Winners of this tournament will go to Memphis, Tennessee, for the August 31 national competition.
